

WOMEN PROTEST 'WET' OFFICERS

W. C. T. U. Asks Board To Name Those Who Favor Dry Law

Protests against the appointment of men on the police force of this city who are known to be opposed to the Eighteenth amendment were registered by the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Muscatine with the civil service commission. Formal action has been taken by the women's organization and a copy of the protest sent to the board by Mrs. M. L. Hemstead, secretary of the W. C. T. U.

The communication forwarded to the commission by the Women's Christian Temperance Union is as follows:

"To the Civil Service Commission: The members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, through their executive committee, wish to register a protest against the appointment of policemen known to be opposed to the Eighteenth amendment and urge the choice of men favorable to the observance of all laws."

Mrs. Hemstead said Saturday evening that the organization did not wish to specify any particular member of the police force but had intended the communication as a general protest.

S. C. Samuels, chairman of the civil service commission could not be located but Charles Opel, a member, said that all meetings of the commission were open to the public and any resident had the privilege of registering a protest against any appointment.

A number of police officers are at present on a 30 day probation. Mr. Opel pointed out, and no action would be taken by the commission until after this period had elapsed unless some outstanding complaint was proven against one of the officers.

There probably will not be any meeting of the commission until the first part of next month, Mr. Opel said.

Four-H Clubs Will Get Demonstration Help During Week

Four-H teams will be given assistance at their meetings and in demonstration practice for the coming fair, by Mrs. Grace Rylander, home demonstration agent, during most of the coming week.

Complete Enjoyment of Your Holidays

WHAT is recreation for the rest of the body is, unfortunately, a time of over-work and strain for our eyes. Glare leaps at our eyes from golf courses, tennis courts, water, and motor roads; it is present nearly everywhere that we go for recreation. It is not the direct sun light from overhead, but the reflected glare from below the eye level that causes trouble.

SOFT-LITE Glare Filtering Lenses will safely protect the eyes and make possible greater enjoyment of holidays.

Many Towns Abandoned in County, Annals Disclose

Report Included 36 Cities That Are Now Extinct

No less than 26 Muscatine county towns have been abandoned, according to the current issue of the "Annals of Iowa," a historical quarterly published by the Historical, Memorial and Art department of Iowa. This list includes Bloomington and Newburg, two former names for Muscatine.

The city of Muscatine was first platted in 1838 as Newburg, but within a year the name was changed to Bloomington, which it remained until 1849 when it became Muscatine. Bloomington was the name of the postoffice from 1839 to 1849.

Another town which was incorporated under a different name than it now bears is Fairport. When this place was first platted it was known as Salem. It was founded as Salem at the time of the original survey in 1837 and is shown on maps of 1838 and 1839 as Salem, according to the history. The town of Stockton was first known as Fulton, according to the report.

Two Location Not Found
The location of two former Iowa towns, listed at one time in the U. S. Official Register as being post-offices has never been found. They are Glen Dale, a postoffice in Muscatine county from 1850 and 1851 and Prairie Mills, listed as a post-office from 1858 to 1871. The information regarding other abandoned towns in Muscatine county is as follows:

Cedar Grove—A postoffice in the 1860's in the eastern part of Wilton township.

Cedar Town—Laid out as a town in the southeast quarter of section 34 and the southwest quarter of 35, Goshen township, on the west bank of the Cedar River, as found at the time of the original survey in 1837.

Geneva—A pioneer town of pretensions laid out in 1837 near the southwest corner of Sweetland township on the bank of the Mississippi about three miles northeast of Muscatine. It came near being the first county seat. Post-office, 1838 to 1841.

Iowa—A place shown on maps from 1845 to 1857 at or near the present town of Atalissa.

Lacey—A place shown on maps from 1838 to 1856 on the bank of the Mississippi and on the east side of the mouth of Pine Creek.

Lucas—A place shown on maps of 1845 in the southeastern part of Goshen township on the west bank of Cedar River.

Melaine Had Postoffice Melaine—A post office in the northeastern part of Sweetland township from 1847 to 1879.

Montpelier—A town on the bank of the Mississippi and a short way west of the mouth of Pine creek as shown on the Judson Black Hawk Purchase map. This location is about three miles west of the present village of Montpelier.

Myrtle—A post office (1892-99) in the northern part of Cedar township near Cedar River.

Orono—A post office (1861-70) in the eastern part of Pike township.

Powashack—A post office in Muscatine county from 1841 to 1844. The name was changed to Overman's Ferry in 1844.

Springfield—Shown on maps of 1897 at or near the later post office of Montpelier.

DISPUTED BILL TO BE SETTLED IN THE COURTS

A disputed newspaper paper account was Saturday made the basis of litigation when suit was instituted in district court against the Progressive Publishing company, publisher of the Midwest Free Press, by the receivers of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper company of Minneapolis. The amount claimed is $2,256.76.

When the Free Press began publication in December, 1930, the newspaper paper was ordered from the Minneapolis concern, it being specified that the paper company was to furnish a high grade product, white in color. Readers of the Free Press, during the first two months of publication, will remember the miserable paper delivered, a paper of rotten texture and dirty yellow color.

The paper furnished was of such poor quality that the Free Press sued much over criticism from subscribers and loss of business that it was impossible to continue the use of the paper furnished by the concern in Minneapolis.

All attempts to secure an amicable adjustment of the matter with the receivers of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper company were unavailing and they are instructed to bring suit in order that the dispute might be settled in court.

Bigger Maid-Rite Sandwich Shop Is Opened to Public

With a band concert presented by the Rotary Boys band and the giving of a free drink of pop, milk or coffee with each sandwich sold, the new Maid-Rite Hamburger shop on Cedar street between Front and Second streets was opened Saturday. Hundreds of patrons flocked to the stand Saturday evening to purchase sandwiches, root beer and other products.

Fred Angell, owner of the shop, has been in business at that location for the past several years. The former building has been replaced by a much larger and more attractive stucco structure. New and modern equipment has been installed, thus assuring patrons of better service.

The Rotary Boys band of 50 pieces, under the direction of Elmer Ziegler, presented a concert between the hours of 8 and 10 p. m. Saturday.

The same Maid-Rite sandwiches and other tasty foodstuffs, which have contributed to the growth of the business, making larger quarters necessary will continue to be served at the shop, Mr. Angell announces.

Speaking Dates Of Norman Baker

Many of our friends have phoned and written us regarding the various speaking dates arranged for Norman Baker, and we are pleased to mention them as follows:

On all above dates where possible, Mr. Baker will furnish the Callaphone music and public address system of loud speakers to accommodate the crowds.

Speaking dates can be arranged for the appearance of Mr. Baker, without charge. Address him at Muscatine, Iowa.

the north central part of Orono township.

Overman's Ferry—A post office from 1844 to 1858 in the southwestern part of section 24, Goshen township, on the Cedar River. It was formerly called Powashack.

Pike—A post office from 1852 to 1871 in the central part of Pike township, a short way south of the present town of Nichols.

Pine Mills Listed
Pine Mills—A post office from 1870 to 1901, with some intermissions, in the southwestern part of Montpelier township in Pine creek, about three miles northeast of Fairport and now within the Wild Cat Den State park.

Port Allen—A former railroad station and hamlet in the southeastern part of section 24, Goshen township, in the extreme southern part of the township. Post office, 1863-68.

Portland—A place shown on maps of 1857 near the central part of Cedar township on the east bank of Cedar river.

Powashack—A post office in Muscatine county from 1841 to 1844. The name was changed to Overman's Ferry in 1844.

Advisory Dept. Explains
Methods and Costs

By ROYCE FAIRBANKS
Fairbanks Home for Funerals

Approximately one hundred leading funeral directors, throughout the United States and Canada, have adopted a policy which is being warmly praised by business and social leaders everywhere. This forward step is the establishment of a public Advisory Department, where members of the community may obtain reliable funeral information before need arises.

Fairbanks' Home for Funerals was one of the first to establish such a department—and already many families have called to prepare themselves for an emergency, knowing that while need may not come for many years, this precaution will save them much needless trouble and expense.

RAILROADS SEEK RATE INCREASE OF 15 PERCENT

Carriers Plead for a Raise With Their Backs to Wall

Citrus league. It stated the proposed increase was "unscientific and unwarranted by the condition of the railroads and unjustified by the condition of industries that will have to bear the burden."

Preferred Standing Rapped

It was further stated there was no reason why the railroads should be given "preferred standing" at the expense of other industries, the 15 percent increase, applied to California fruits and vegetables, would add $22,000,000 annually to their freight burden, equal to five percent of the total increase sought by the carriers on all commodities, while California fruits and vegetables constitute less than three-fourths of one percent of the total tonnage of all commodities, the message said.

"Regarding Rep. Beck's (R) of Pennsylvania, statement that the decline of railroad revenues imperils billions of railroad bonds as legal securities, facts show that railroad securities are on a higher level than what prevailed in late 1921 and early 1922, when the commission ordered all rates reduced 10 percent with general approval of practically all political and financial circles," the message added.

Railroad Man's Opinion

The collapse of railroad credit is so serious that it can only be compared with the present collapse of German credit, Fairman R. Dick, of New York, chairman of a committee of railroad security holders, told the commission today.

He asserted the bonds of a large group of railroads had collapsed 32 points on June 1, while 5 1/2 and 7 percent German bonds had dropped only 17 points on that date. Dick said that while capital was flying away from Germany, capital was flying from railroad bonds to utility and municipal issues.

Sick Investors' Protection

"Satisfactory protection for investors in railroad securities and stability of railroad credit can be obtained by the roads only by building up reserves during normal times of prosperity adequate to tide them over during periods of depression or by changes in the rate structure corresponding in traffic conditions during depressions," he said.

The only available remedy for existing conditions is an increase in rates, there being no present prospect of an increase in business nor other practicable means of reducing expenses or increasing revenues," he said.

Four Drivers to Appear Monday for Reckless Driving

Two men were placed under arrest Saturday evening on charges of reckless driving and the license numbers of two others, on the same charges, were obtained by Fred Kopp, motorcycle officer.

F. C. Miller of Muscatine were arrested by Officer Kopp at the intersection of Cypress and Second streets, and were ordered to appear in court on Monday. Because of recent transfers of licenses, police had not secured the names of owners of two of the cars.

Garage and Car at A. DeCamp Garage Burned Early Today

Damage estimated at $500 or more was caused by a fire of unknown origin that completely destroyed a double garage at the A. DeCamp residence, 614 Woodlawn avenue, at 12:35 a. m., this morning. Firemen of the numbers 1 and 2 stations answered an alarm, but the fire had gained considerable headway and efforts were concentrated on saving adjoining garages and barns. One line of hose was laid.

A Ford tudor sedan belonging to DeCamp was burned with the garage and was a total loss.

Burial will be made in the Greenwood cemetery with the Rev. Vernon Shontz, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Unknown Solicitor Says Welfare Does Not Aid Transients

Because it is claimed the Muscatine Welfare association does not care for transients, a man whose identity was not learned, has been soliciting funds for that purpose, local officials have been informed. He also claimed the man has used the names of prominent residents, some of whom are on the Welfare board, as reference, without their consent or knowledge. It is said the man informed the donors that he would work in the county.

Awarded Her Permit To Open 'Barnyard' Club in Reno Area

RENO, Nev.—(INS)—Belle Livingston, self-styled "empress of the barnyards," late Saturday won her right to "muscle in" on the night club business of Reno's divorce colony.

The county license board voted three to two to issue the former New York night club hostess a night club and gambling license for her "barnyard" project on the Hall ranch near here.

Property owners and ranchers in the vicinity had protested the establishment of the club.

DISTRICT COURT

The Chicago Joint Stock Land bank, defendant with M. P. Bomke and Ella Bomke, in a $2,000 foreclosure suit of H. H. The greatest remaining vote offer of the entire campaign is now in force and offers the last big opportunity for candidates, both present and prospective, to get a lead in the race.

More Votes Given Now

Those who have been thinking of entering the big gift distribution campaign and those whose names now appear in the list, but who have as yet not started an active campaign, will find no better time to do so than right now.

With the present big vote schedule in effect, giving candidates an opportunity to pile up votes on the double quick, no one should delay in entering the campaign with determination and earnestness to win this coming week.

Time is fleeting—but nine days of the big vote period are now left, after which the present vote schedule will decrease.

With but nine days more in which to turn in subscriptions and secure the greatest number of votes for each subscription, interest in the competition and enthusiasm in the grand prize distribution is growing by leaps and bounds.

Each contestant in the race realizes that the grand prizes are practically within his reach, to be claimed for his very own or forfeited to more aggressive opponents during the next few days, depending almost entirely upon his final supreme efforts put forth while the big votes are allowed.

The persons who overlook one opportunity to better their chances to win are taking the desperate risk of losing one of the big prizes.

Office Open Evenings

Campaign headquarters at The Midwest Free Press will be open evenings to receive votes and issue supplies such as extra subscription receipt books, sample copies, etc. All subscriptions that are received on or before July 27th will count on the big votes. Subscriptions that are mailed, not later than ten o'clock p. m. July 27th will also count on the present vote schedule.

Remember the winning votes can be secured between now and Monday night, July 27th. It is entirely possible for anyone to step right in today to make a new candidate and secure them.

For any information relative to the campaign phone or write campaign Dept. Midwest Free Press Phone 2900.

W. MESS, 52, DIES HERE SATURDAY

William Mess, 52, of Clinton, Ia., died at the Baker hospital Saturday evening. He had been a patient at the institution for the past six weeks.

Mr. Mess was born in Holstein, Germany May 23, 1879, but had been a resident of this country for many years.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Emma Schrader of Clinton and five sons, John of Wheatland, Ia., William and August of Clinton, Fred and Adolph of Lowden.

The body will be taken by automobile to Clinton where burial will be made today.

ALIENATION SUIT FILED

MARION, Ill.—(INS)—A $10,000 alienation of affections suit was filed here today by S. C. Griggs of Herrin against Raymond Bruce, president of the Williamson County Fair Association.

The action, brought in circuit court, accuses Bruce of alienating the affections of Griggs' wife, Mrs. Winifred Griggs.

Prohibition Enforcement

Many believe the final test of prohibition enforcement is on. There are now approximately 1900 enforcement agents in the field, 335 new ones having been sent out on active duty July 15. The increased number resulted from the additional appropriations which were made available July 1.

Whether it is possible to seriously enforce national prohibition is a problem about which many have become concerned. The increase in the force of enforcement agents will probably tell the tale.

The government has shown striking results of late in the campaign to eliminate the big operators by putting them out of circulation. The breaking up of the Capone gang seems an accomplished fact and speaks well for the possibilities of enforcement.

As long as prohibition is the law of the land, the government should use its best endeavors to see that the law is enforced. There can be no question, it seems to us, that the wave of crime, which has swept the country, is largely due to prohibition.

Crime waves are not uncommon in this country but the past five or six years have witnessed a condition which will take its place in history as one of the most remarkable manifestations on record. There is no parallel for it in crime annals.

The presence in the country of armed mobs, governed by despotic criminal autocrats who recognize no other law than the machine gun, is a condition no country can tolerate. The robber barons of feudal days were not even on a par with the Capones, the Morans and the Diamonds. The modern gang chief wields power and authority never before dreamed of in a country supposedly governed under the law.

The government is on the right track in aiming at the "man higher up." Wholesale bootlegging can only exist as long as the gang exists. Bootleggers would soon go out of business without the facilities afforded by far-flung, well financed organizations. Illicit liquor cannot be manufactured and sold on a profitable basis if each bootlegger must also be his own manufacturer and wholesaler. The game is only profitable because the booze peddler can buy in large quantities and sell at retail with low profits.

If the government can successfully cope with the wholesale end of the business, the retail end will take care of itself. The addition of 335 enforcement agents does not seem impressive but the prohibition director seems to feel it will help.

Those opposed to prohibition have had a strong argument thus far based upon the theory that prohibition is not enforceable. If the government succeeds in jailing such men as Al Capone, the wets are going to find it tougher going.

Too much fun has been made of the prohibition law and some of the efforts to enforce it have been comic, but the results of lack of enforcement have not been funny. As long as it is the law, the government should not temporize in its enforcement.

Rail Motor Cars

The railroads are admittedly entitled to co-operation from the states in their fight on motor trucks and buses instead of the states making it easy for the latter to further demoralize the railroads by ruinous competition.

The roads must not, however, sit idly by and wait until some legislature is smart enough to see that the buses and freight trucks are not only ruining the railroads but are demolishing the expensive concrete highways.

A step in the right direction, on the part of the railroads, is the installation of rail motor car service to replace steam trains, especially on branch lines. Figures just made available show that the railroads intend to extend this type of passenger service.

Sixty-two railroads in the United States, Canada and Mexico have, since 1923, installed in service 730 rail motor cars. Of the total number of railroads, 53 located in the United States have placed in service 673 rail motor cars, while three Canadian roads have installed 50 and one Mexican road, seven.

The value of the rail motor cars lies in the fact that they are less expensive to operate than a steam train, but yet successfully and satisfactorily meet passenger, mail and express traffic requirements where, from an economic standpoint, conditions do not justify more extensive service.

More than one-third of their net earnings were paid by the railroads in taxes to the various federal, state and local governments in the first four months of this year.

Reports as to revenues and expenses for the Class 1 railroads show that out of each dollar of net revenues received in the four months period, 36.73 cents went for taxes.

There has been an almost constant annual increase in the tax bill of the railroads, which in 1930 paid a total of 31 million dollars in taxes, compared with 368 million dollars in 1930, an increase of 1,087 percent.

Thus it will be seen that the goose that lays the golden egg of taxes is deserving of some consideration on the part of the public which eats the egg.

On the other hand, the railroads are not entitled to sub-dies or other consideration solely because they are heavy taxpayers. What the railroads are entitled to receive is just treatment at the hands of the states.

Whether the public patronizes the railroads or buses, depends a great deal upon the necessities of the occasion. If there is no railway service and there is bus service, it must be obvious that the bus will get the business.

With their right of way unobstructed and owned by the roads, there should be no possible competition from outside services. The railroads can furnish good passenger service with rail motor cars. They have taken a step in the right direction. Further improvement along similar lines will do more to offset bus and truck competition than reams of propaganda.

Our Platform for the People Is:

1. Less taxation.

4. Lower freight rates.
5. Return of river transportation.
6. A cleanup of some state institutions.

Medical Fallacies

FALLACIES OF THE T. B. TEST

Statistics support this contention as a study of them will show that bovine tuberculosis is much more prevalent in districts where the tuberculin test has been carried on extensively. One scientist sums up the situation in the following words which are most reasonable, logical and self-evident even without the proof furnished by the experiments which are reported in late medical journals which substantiate the statement of the scientist which are that "it can not be disputed that from every point of view the injection of virus capable of multiplying in the body is bad. Who knows for what length of time attenuated bacilli can lie dormant and then assume its former virulence?"

This admission, coming as it does from an orthodox medical man shows the growing tendency to discredit the belief in the effectiveness of serum treatment in man or in animals. The astonishing feature of the tuberculin test is that it has survived and become so general in view of the disastrous consequences which have constantly come to light with its widespread use.

In view of the many disastrous consequences brought to light by the widespread use of tuberculin, how then has tuberculin testing made such headway and become so universal in spite of the fallacies on which it is based which have been proved by scientific fact?

According to Eugene Underhill, M. D., of Philadelphia, who has made a study of the T. B. test abroad as well as in this country, it is due to "error in judgment, together with ignorance, prejudice and cupidity, which were, and are, the stepping stones to the present unfortunate situation."

Dr. Underhill goes even further in saying "if people generally knew the facts, especially if they knew of the vile product that is used in making the test, it would be very risky business for any lay person to handle and consider forcing such milk upon the consumer. It is doubtful whether sufficient police protection could be obtained that would be strong enough to restrain an informed and aroused populace from tearing down the buildings and hanging every lawbreaker who dared favor such an unspeakable outrage."

"No uniformity in preparation or in the action of tuberculin has ever been shown in the use of this disease product. Certainly any unprejudiced and thoughtful person can see that tuberculin tested milk is 'tuberculin tainted milk.' How can it be anything else when it is drawn from cows that have been deliberately infected with tuberculin? The farmer does not know what is being shot into his cattle, and the 'testers' do not know. Some sinister forces or individuals, well back out of sight and skulking in darkness, doubtless know the physical combinations, but they may know nothing and care less as to their mischievous and disease breeding properties."

Since mere glorification of this vile product has not worked, people are made to believe that bovine tuberculosis is transmissible to human beings—a thing that has never been proved and is only advocated by those who have an axe to grind via the T. B. test. During the last 20 years there has been a reduction of over 50 percent in the mortality of tuberculosis in human beings, but during that same period there has been a marked increase in bovine tuberculosis as has been pointed out, and in the districts where the test has been carried out the most intensively the increase has been the greatest, a fact which speaks for itself and shows that tuberculin testing actually spread bovine tuberculosis.

In Senate Document No. 85 which has been quoted previously, an expert's opinion develops the enlightening and authenticated facts which follow:

1. There have been many errors in making the intradermal test of cattle for tuberculosis, through which numerous supposed reactions have occurred when infection could not be verified by autopsies.
2. In this test, probably due to immature knowledge on the part of some testers, resulting in errors in reading, a number of condemnations unsupported by postmortem findings have been made out of harm's way with practical efficiency.
3. Numerous valuable purebred cattle have been condemned under this test when a stay in action was obtained and the retest made clear that the test was wrong.
4. It is professionally and ethically correct that, after a proper lapse of time, a retest of alleged reactors should be available to be conducted by a person of acknowledged skill and character. However, there is decided opposition to retesting, and a difference of opinion among experts concerning the reliability of subsequent tests.
5. The tuberculin testing of all dairy cows and the elimination of those that react to the test is unnecessary, useless, and a waste of effort as a proper and sufficient physical and clinical examination of dairy cows, and the elimination of those obviously affected in the mammary glands or udder, is quite sufficient.
6. Tuberculin is always toxic or poisonous to living tissue. (Is it any wonder then that a healthy animal 'reacts' or has a fever following its inoculation?)

In view of repeated requests of those unfamiliar with technical medical terms concerning the nature of tuberculin and the effect of injecting it into animals, the following is a reproduction of terms understandable by the non-medical reader of some technically worded paragraphs devoted to a description of tuberculin from the Encyclopedia Medicine—2d Edition, Vol. 12, p. 710:

"Tuberculin is 'cultured' or prepared by growing the bacilli of tuberculosis (microscopic one-celled organisms) for six to eight weeks in a slightly alkaline veal broth (veal broth to which certain salts have been added). At the expiration of this period the culture (broth and bacilli) is boiled for several hours, thereby killing all bacteria. The 'killed culture' as it is called, is then evaporated to one-tenth of its bulk. The dead tubercle bacilli are then filtered out and the remaining fluid constitutes crude tuberculin."

No matter how carefully tuberculin is prepared or treated, even after 'endotoxin' or internal poison is removed, it always retains toxic, or poisonous to the living body.

Since the tuberculin test is at most a contrived diagnosis for disease it could have a small part in the physical examination of human health. At most tuberculin is merely a diagnostic agent about which there is a wide difference of opinion as to its reliability, and there is no claim made for immunization against tuberculosis. As one time there were experiments with a view of perfecting tuberculin with this end as an objective, though the results of these experiments proved the fallacy of the theory at which time it was then intended to be used solely as a diagnostic agent. In spite of all the work of scientists along these lines of experimentation, it is surprising that there is such wide difference of opinion as to its use in every respect as well as an absolute lack of standardization in its preparation. Even if it were possible to standardize its manufacture, still there would be a great difference in

THE FUNNY RESULT OF COUNTING CHICKENS

One and one is always two.

And two and two makes four.

They cannot make a fraction less

Nor yet a fraction more.

If you don't believe it try counting one and one. Do it just many times as you please, the answer will always be the same. Of course Farmer Brown's boy knows this.

He also knows that it is just as true that if you take one away from two you will have one left, and two only. So the instant he discovers Redtail, the Hawk sailing away up in the blue, blue sky he decided that he must count his chickens and do it right away. Then he would know whether or not Red-tail had caught one.

Mrs. Featherlegs was still rather excited. In fact she was so much excited that it was some little time before he could induce her to allow him to lift her up so that he could see the big farm aiding under her

But at last, sure that she had had the best of Redtail the Hawk, and that he had flown away for good,

she permitted Farmer Brown's boy to count her babies while she fussed about and told him all about the robber she had driven away. Of course he didn't understand a word

she said, but he guessed what she was telling him, and told her how proud he was of her.

Now there had been twenty chickens in the care of Mrs. Feather-legs, ten black ones, which were her own, and ten white ones, which were the ones Farmer Brown's boy was in charge of. "Now," she said, "count these great things from when they should be grown up. You remember he had given them to Mrs. Feather-legs to care for because she was such a good mother, while the other mother was a gossiping, heedless young thing, not at all fitted to bring up a family, particularly such an important family as this one. Of course Farmer Brown's boy was most anxious about the white chickens, and of course he counted them first.

"One, two, three, four, five, six,

seven, eight, nine, ten, eleven,"

Farmer Brown's boy counted. "Now, how can I make eleven out of ten?"

he demanded of no one in particular.

"Those little scamps move around so fast I must have counted one of them twice. One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine,

ten, and one makes ELEVEN."

Farmer Brown's boy looked as if he felt foolish. I suspect he did. He had had only ten white chickens and other white chickens on the chickens on the farm, yet he had counted eleven both times. "I'll try it once more," said he, and began counting. The result was just the same—eleven. "Well, one of them things is sure, and that is that old

Redtail didn't catch any of the white ones. I would rather than be one too many than one too few.

So he counted eleven, and he was right. He counted eleven, and he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

he was right. He counted eleven, and

It is with much regret that I

A very dear friend, of Muscatine, sent me a copy of the Midwest

ing your farewell address which I read with much interest. I am sorry and sincerely hope that you will win out and succeed in reopening your station. I can't understand how the people of Mus-

I visited Station K-TNT one and one-half years ago. When I was in

I opened my store at 7 o'clock I turned into K-TNT and enjoyed your program and the company.

I take it, from your farewell ad-

Radio Station K-TNT was that you quoted prices, in your advertisements over the radio. Just a half

I hope you will be on the air soon

People's Pulpit:

I read all sides of the economic question. Mr. King's editorial in July TNT Magazine suits me to a dot. I wish everyone could read it.

Under capitalism, wealth produced is shared by labor. Labor spends its share, but money doesn't eat and wear clothes, so its share of the wealth is left on the market except what the capitalist lives up.

If he lives his share up, he will not be making money. He must sell. At the same time, no one who needs the wealth has the money to buy. The wealth which capital leaves on the market is called "surplus." The market being full production must stop. Seeking foreign markets makes wars for the workers to fight.

The old saying was "by industry and economy, we thrive." By "industry" and "economy" I thrive. By industry and spending we thrive.

The markets are for the exchange of wealth. When wealth goes off the market to the consumer's exchange, we compete. Labor cannot compete with money in accumulation because it has no need. Then interest intensifies competition. Reinvestment of interest makes competition fiercer. Re-investment of interest makes competition fiercer and this soon makes capital own all wealth.

This has about arrived. Now

Keota free Chautauqua started off in fine shape Tuesday. It was thought there were over 1,000 present, nearly all the nearby towns were represented, as well as the many farmers and city residents attending. The first session opened up at 2:30 with an informal matinee by the Sprague Players. In the evening "Kibitzer," the most up-to-date play in America was presented by old friends, the Sprague Players, before the afternoon matinee, and evening play, were received in a way that showed that those in attendance were greatly elated over the manner in which they were presented.

1870 Elegance Comes Back With Little Dip Hats

By Alice Langelier

PARIS—(U. N. S.)—1870 elegance has come back to women by way of the little dip hats which recall lovely white-haired marquises of the 19th century and all the beauty of that period.

French designers believe that this headgear will have a big influence on fall fashions which will be here before one can say "Jack Sprat," now that the June season is over and gone. These hats are too strong a style tendency to be neglected and demand longer and wider skirts with snuggler and shorter bodies.

And this all spells 1870 elegant sophistication, hints of which are to be seen on many smart women's backs, as well as heads right now. Seen at the Ritz recently was a black crepe marocain frock with white silk butterfly outlines in black decorating the surplice front, with short sleeves. The cape jacket had a dolman shoulder-line and fastened at the waist, reminiscent of the 1870 period.

Jane Regny puts a draped bustle effect on a lovely old blue crepe gown, the ruffles cascading down the back, a motif which will likely be repeated this autumn together with a modern version of the wide skirts of the 18th century. The Contesse Elle de Ganay is wearing a black tulle evening gown which has a wide skirt made of narrow volants and supported by hoops on the side. The bodice fits snugly with a round décolleté in the front and has practically no back at all. The natural waistline is marked by a velvet ribbon.

DARE INTERPRETS the MODE

Delightful frock and bolero of black and powder blue eyelet-embroidered linen for summer dining. (Courtesy of Champcommunal, Paris).

IT ISN'T the sort of hat you have this year, but the way you wear it that counts! Not that the hats are in any way negligible, my dears, but the trick about them is to wear them properly and piquantly. It's just ruinous to the sweetest hat in the world if you just "put it on" and let it go at that!

These hats of today, with their lovely materials, their unusual trimmings and romantic shapes, have to be put on the "head" just so to attain their full perfection. Have you noticed how they all tip—the large brimmed ones gracefully swooping down to one shoulder, and the small ones descending low over one eye? And when you stop to think about it, this very difference in the way the hats are worn is the outstanding reason for their success.

Now that we have reached mid-summer, and look about us at the hats, we see that they are still equally divided between large and small, but that they are running much more to trimming than they did earlier. We see hats of the "Empress Eugenie" influence—small, romantic little affairs, of finest black straws, dipping low over one side of the forehead, and high on the back of the head, and with charming curled plumes or dainty, multi-colored flowers for trimming.

On the other hand, we see the wide brimmed hats of Panama or Leghorn or straw lace, with the brims cut irregularly or pleated at one side, the whole hat tipped to one side, and trimmed with feathers or flowers above and below the brim, most often in back. And in this type of hat, I recently saw a very chic ornament—an odd, square strass earring on a fine platinum chain, but instead of attaching to Miss's ear, it hung from the hat itself!

AND THE hat designed to be worn with this ensemble was the smart turban I sketch above, also of black and powder blue eyelet linen, handled in the smartest, most sophisticated manner.

THE WISE woman will make use of these eyelet and solid embroidered fabric this summer—and the very chic woman will use such materials unusually!

(Copyright, 1931)

WHY IS it, I wonder, that women have been somewhat slow in embracing the new mode for embroidered linens and cottons this summer? I asked one of my readers, Wel-1-1, my dear, it may have been because they thought such fabric insipid—which is far from the case! For instance, what could be more interesting and unusual than the linen frock and bolero that I sketch for you today? This is from Champcommunal, of black and powder blue eyelet embroidered linen. "N" isn't the skirt an attractive length and fullness.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

It has become necessary for the Y. W. C. A. to call attention to the fact that in order to swim in the Y. W. C. A. pool one must wear a gray cotton bathing suit. The suit must be gray so that the dyes do not run into the pool water, and it must be cotton because woolen suits shed a great deal more lint.

We feel that we will get cooperation along this line since it only means a cleaner and safer pool for people to swim in.

MENU FOR MONDAY, JULY 20, 1931
BREAKFAST: Stewed Prunes, Cornmeal Mush with Milk, Eggs, Vermicelli, Date Muffins, Coffee.
LUNCHEON: Corn and Tomato Chowder, Toasted Crackers, Fresh Fruit Sauce, Raisin Cookies, Iced Coffee.
DINNER: Casserole of Lamb, Baked Stuffed Potatoes, Swiss Chard, Cabbage Salad, Mayonnaise Dressing, Banana Pudding, Coffee.
Date Muffins
One-third cup shortening, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups flour, 1 cup milk, 1-4 cup sugar, 1-2 pound chopped dates. Sift dry ingredients, add milk to beaten eggs and then melted shortening. Stir in chopped dates dredged with flour. Bake in moderate oven in well greased muffin tins.
Corn and Tomato Chowder
Three cups hot milk, 1-4 pound salt pork cut in small pieces, 1 onion, 2 cups boiling water, 1-2 car tomatoes, 1 tablespoon green peppers, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 potatoes sliced, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 can corn, 1 tablespoon butter.
Cook pork with chopped onion and green pepper slowly for two minutes; add water, tomatoes, potatoes salt and pepper. Cook until potatoes are tender; add corn and milk. Melt butter; add flour and thicken chowder with this.
Banana Pudding
Scald 1 quart milk, add well beaten yolks 3 eggs, 1 tablespoon cornstarch and granulated sugar to taste. Boil long enough to make nice thick cream. Thinly slice 3 bananas, arrange in pudding dish, then pour boiled liquid over them. Make meringue of egg whites cover top, and bake all in moderate oven until nice brown. Serve when it is quite cool.

White Coats
White coats apparently are indispensable to summer chic and vary all the way from the conventional polo coat to models distinguished by intricate detail and meticulous cut and finish. One of the best looking is a creamy rough tweed made with wide reverses fringed on the edges. With this is worn a turban of the same material and a printed scarf red with small white conventional designs.

Charming Lamps
These are such charming little lamps that one will want to have some like them for an early American bedroom. The bases are tin painted red like old French toile and the shades are made of blue and white checked cloth.

Bedouin Stripes
Even handkerchiefs show the influence of the French Colonial Exposition for among the new handkerchiefs are smart ones of linen with variegated stripes like those seen in a Bedouin headdress.

Ribbon Jackets
In your collection of little jackets be sure to include one made of wide taffeta ribbon sewed together to form cross wise bands. In red, or bright green, they are very smart to wear over white frocks.

Week-end Kits
If you are cramped for space in the week-end bag don't bother to take along your regular case with its unguents and cosmetics but buy one of the small boxes which contain all the creams and lotions and powders to last over the three days—and which cost less than a dollar for the set.

Week-End Party at Walker's Beach

MACKMEN TAKE WHITE SOX FOR DOUBLE HEADER

Athletics Win First Game, 7 to 6, and Second, 7 to 2

PHILADELPHIA (INS)—The Philadelphia Athletics defeated the Chicago White Sox in both games of their doubleheader Saturday. The scores were 7 to 6 and 7 to 2.

A five run rally in the first inning of the second game helped Rube Walberg accomplish his thirteenth hurling triumph of the season. Pat Caraway was the victim of the A's heavy bombardment in the initial round. Haas helped the Mackmen with a four bagger. The first contest went eleven innings. One single and four bases on balls enabled the home team to break a tie and win. Thomas was the losing hurler. Box score second game:

SPIKED By Spike

But four more weeks remain on the kittenball schedule. These four are expected to bring many changes in the standings of the teams in the three leagues although the present three on top rate the inside track. The past week found the playing of two important games and two games which drew crowds over 1,500 fans. The first contest was staged Wednesday evening when the Figgs and Orange Squares teams battled for top position in the National league with Figgs finally emerging the victor in a close battle. The second important game was played Thursday between two teams tied for the American lead. Kautz and Elks, the latter finally winning out in the last inning to gain league leadership.

Considerable criticism has cropped up over the decision made on the Kautz-Baptist game of several weeks ago when both teams were given a defeat thereby spoiling Kautz's chances of winning in their league. How two teams can each be given a defeat was not quite seen by many but the "v" ruling which has stood ever since kittenball originated, was that any team not showing up must forfeit and as neither team was on hand when the umpire appeared they were both charged with a loss. This ruling was made by all the captains and managers of the various league basketball and kittenball teams several seasons ago and has been carried on each season.

The popular game is more and more getting like baseball. Last season but few players used gloves except the first baseman and catcher, now all are using them and many catchers are using masks. A harder kittenball has been tried by several of the teams and all found it to their liking. Crowds of several hundred fans are always on hand at either one of the three games played each week day evening and when contests are played under the lights, a crowd averaging 1,400 is on hand. Fewer baseball games are being played in this vicinity, many of the old baseball players having converted themselves into kittenball players.

There are at the present time about 60 kittenball teams in Muscatine. To try to pick the best one would be a mighty hard proposition but it appears that Figgs, Downey's Boosters, Heinz, Orange Squeeze and the Elks would stock with any of them. These teams boast many of the old-time baseball players. All five teams rank either first or second in their respective kittenball leagues and at times play sensational ball. To pick the city champion would be like picking out a needle from a haystack but one could almost say without mistake that one of the five will be champion, with the National or Factory league winner given the best chance.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

by John Hix

The famous French novelist, Honoré de Balzac, was extremely fond of good coffee, a connoisseur, with a discriminating judgment of the rarities and choiceness of the various blends. He was unusually fastidious about the quality of the grains and carefully studied, as an art, the percolating of the beverage. He always blended Bourbon, Moka, and Martine, going to three different grocers to get them. Just how much coffee Balzac drank every day is unknown, but it is known that he consumed great quantities, as much as several gallons a day.

His abuses of coffee finally undermined his seemingly indestructible health. However, his fondness for fruit helped him prolong his life. He was especially fond of cherries and at one time he ate four pounds at a single sitting.

After harpooning an 85-foot whale off the Alaskan coast the crew of the whaler Tanginok were pulled about the sea from dawn until dark by the huge sea-beast. After the whale had pulled them about all day at a speed of several knots, the crew fired a third and final shot and ended the prolonged battle.

FERRELL BEATS YANKEES ALONE

Cleveland Star Hits And Pitches Club To 2-1 Victory

By COPELAND C. BURG (INS Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—Some folks, including great baseball players, who argue Wesley Ferrell of the Cleveland Indians is as good a pitcher as the peerless Lefty Grove of the Athletics, found him and eggs to support their claims Saturday.

Ferrell, a star right hander whose record would be better with a more consistent club, beat the Yankees single-handed Friday, outpitching Herb Pennock and matching blow for blow with no less than Babe Ruth.

Wesley limited the Yanks to three hits and when one of them turned out to be home No. 23 by the great hitter, Ferrell proceeded to circuit drive himself. The whack won the ball game, 2 to 1, and gave the Indians the deciding tilt in the five game series.

Grove Wins Nineteenth
Grove won his nineteenth game of the season, dropping Detroit, 6 to 3. The A's smashed the Tigers four to one in the series.

Ethan Allen did a modern Giants deroga in the seventh and the Giants finally beat the Cubs, moving up again into second place in the National ding dong. Ethan hit a single in the seventh to score two runs which rolled it off for New York, 7 to 6.

The Robins showed power in winning, 4 to 1, over St. Louis, Stephen-evening the series. Lefty O'Doul poked four hits, giving a record of 12 blasts in 16 times at bat in the Cardinal series.

Crowder was nothing to get excited about, but four White Sox pitchers were much worse and Washington spanked the Chicago White Sox, 12 to 7. The Senators pocketed 21 hits.

Keds Scalp Braves
Lucas took the role of Wes Ferrell and on top of holding the Braves of Boston to five hits, got a double and single in four times up, to triumph for the Cincy Reds, 5 to 0.

Big Jim Elliott was right twice in a week, again confounding the Pirates for Philadelphia, 4 to 1. He gave only four safeties. Kremer was the victim.

Kress made a homer and Goslin and Schulte each got two hits as the Browns of St. Louis took their fourth in the five-game series from Boston's ruddy Hose, 6 to 2.

It was announced Saturday by Mr. A. J. Lindley, physical instructor, that Tadewald, Testrake and Horst passed the junior tests while Lindley and Rahbehn passed the senior requirements.

DODGERS BEAT CHICAGO CUBS IN 11 INNINGS

Jack Quinn Relieves Vance and Dodgers Cop 2-1 Game

CHICAGO (INS)—The Brooklyn Dodgers nosed out the Chicago Cubs Saturday, 3 to 2, in a thrilling overtime game.

Bissonette's single, a pass to Bressler, a sacrifice and Slade's fly to right gave the Robins the game in the eleventh inning. Good relief hurling by John Quinn played a prominent part in the Dodger triumph. Quinn relieved Dazzy Vance in the ninth, when the latter showed signs of weakening. Cuyler's single scoring Stephenson enabled the Cubs to tie the game. Grimm had four hits to his credit for the afternoon, including a homer.

Helen Willis Moody Beaten by Perkins

LONGWOOD CRICKET CLUB, Brookline, Mass. (INS)—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, queen of the tennis world, lost a one-set match, 6-4, to G. Holmes Perkins of Cambridge, Massachusetts singles champion, in an exhibition match at the Longwood tournament Saturday evening.

Perkins had been defeated by Mrs. Moody in two previous exhibition matches during the week.

Leo Diegel Warns on Using Brassie Instead of Head; Gives Other Simple Rules

EDITORS NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of ten articles of instruction in golf, for the readers of The Free Press by the famous golfer, Leo Diegel, Professional at Agua Caliente, and runner up in the recent National Open at Inverness, in Toledo, as told to "Artie" McGovern, nationally known physical trainer. These articles appear weekly.

By LEO DIEGEL
As Told to "Artie" McGovern (Written Exclusively for and Copyright by International News Service, 1931)

Lesson No. 4—
"The Brassie and Spoon"
NEW YORK—The brassie and spoon are two very important golf clubs, more so now than ever, since the majority of golf courses are of championship length and the average par four hole takes two good wood shots to reach the green.

The brassie, however, seems to cause more trouble than any other club in the bag, but in my opinion half of this trouble may be attributed to the fact that the player uses his brassie instead of his head!

In other words, although a shot to the green at a first glance may look like a full brassie shot, this doesn't necessarily mean that it is best to use the brassie.

The condition of the lie is the first consideration. If your ball is not setting up nicely on the fairway, it is not a brassie shot. If it is on a down-hill or up-hill lie, it is not a brassie shot. If it is embedded in a hole, or lying on hard ground, it is not a brassie shot, and if the distance to the green is fifteen or twenty yards further than you can ordinarily get in a perfect shot, again a brassie should not be used.

In the last case, nine times out of ten you will press for more distance and put your ball into trouble. Cases such as these, I believe, account for half the difficulty with the brassie and the spoon. When in doubt, use your head and not your club! Play an iron shot safe, for there's always the possibility of pitching up close enough to get down in one putt.

Now, if your ball is setting up nicely and you can take a good comfortable stance for a brassie shot, your swing is much the same as in the drive, except for the fact that there is a little more wrist action than there is when hitting a ball that is teed up. Also, the position of the face of the club is slightly different. The brassie has more loft than the driver and there is a greater possibility of slicing than with the straight faced club.

I suggest that as you address the ball, turn the toe of the clubhead slightly in and follow the instructions for driving, as given in my previous article, by concentrating on hitting from the inside out. Otherwise, hit through firmly and don't try to raise the ball with the clubhead by hitting as you would with an iron. The loft of the club will take care of raising the ball. Get your line and swing the clubhead through as if the ball were not there. You must hit through the ball.

Don't think that it's what men know about the hereafter—that tightens them; it's what they don't know.

GREATEST TURF UPSET OF YEAR SHOCKS 60,000

Winner of Arlington Race Pays $12.80 For $2 Mutuel

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill. (INS)—Mate, A. C. Bostwick's great colt, caused the greatest turf upset of the year here Saturday afternoon when he won the rich $90,000 Arlington classic before a shrieking, howling mob of 60,000 race lovers.

The Bostwick colt succeeded in accomplishing the unbelievable when he left the champion three year old, Twenty Grand, four lengths and a nose behind. Spanish Play finished just a nose ahead of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Twenty Grand.

The classic had a gross value of $86,200, of which $76,350 went to Bostwick, the young Niek York owner. Spanish Play earned $7,000 for running second. Mate's second choice in the $20,000 Grand's share was $3,000. Sir Ashley earned $1,000 for winding up fourth.

Mate ran the mile and a quarter in 2:02 2-5. Clipping one and a fifth seconds off the former track record.

Sir Ashley, owned by William Woodward of New York wound up fourth; Sun Meadow ended fifth; Joey Bibb sixth and St. Brideaux was last in the field of seven.

Mate was second choice in the liberal betting odds of 5 to 1 and paid $12.80 for a $2 mutuel ticket. There was no fluke to Mate's smashing victory and he is now on an equal footing with Twenty Grand for championship honors.

Twenty Grand Moves
Spanish Play had moved into second place on the turn and Mate was third with Sir Ashley fourth. Joey Bibb fifth and St. Brideaux and Twenty Grand racing in the rear.

This order they held to the half pole when Twenty Grand made his move. It looked as though Jockey Charles Kurtsinger had timed his run perfectly because Twenty Grand responded in a jump and soon was in fourth place.

Coming around the long turn into the stretch Sun Meadow began to show signs that he was about through and Robertson then sent Mate into the lead which he increased with each stride. Speed Wasn't There
At this point Kurtsinger applied the lash to Twenty Grand, but the green tree pride was not there. He could not muster that great speed that had characterized his entire career, but stuck doggedly to his task like a real thoroughbred.

For a moment the crowd appeared shocked at the failure of Twenty Grand, a 1 to 3 favorite in the betting, but they rallied with a great cheer for the game and speedy winner. As the colt was trotted back to the stand the cheers were deafening from the throats of 60,000 persons, the greatest crowd that ever saw a horse race in Chicago.

WALKER STOPS CARDINALS FOR GIANTS, 4 TO 0

Manager McGraw and Coach Burns Sent To Clubhouse

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Superb hurling by Bill Walker stopped the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday and featured a 4 to 0 shutout victory for the New York Giants.

Walker held the first place Cardinals to two singles.

Mel Ott put the New Yorkers out in front with a home run in the second inning. He also drove in a run in the sixth with a single and later scored on Jackson's double.

Jackson's sensational fielding stopped the Cardinals whenever they threatened to stage a rally against Walker.

Manager McGraw and George Burns, coach for the Giants, were ordered from the game for vigorously protesting a decision by umpire Clarke, in calling Fullis out on a close play at first. Box score:

Local Golf Stars Leave for Mason City for Tourney

Seven Geneva Golf and Country club stars left Muscatine at 4:30 this morning for Mason City where they will participate in the state amateur golf tournament which begins there Monday and lasts until Saturday.

Those making the trip were Harold Figg, Fenton and Glen Barnard, George and Charles Meerdink, Franklin Chandler and Glen Fairall. Local fans are basing most hope on Chandler, due to the fact that he has competed in many other big meets and has more experience than the others.

The party should arrive at Mason City about noon today and will immediately journey to the links where they will take a practice round this afternoon to better familiarize themselves with the course.

Last Minute Goal By Sub Gives Old Aikens Win, 12-11

LAKE FOREST, Ill.—(INS)—A dramatic last-minute goal, scored by James Cooley, substitute player, gave the old Aikens polo team a hairbreadth 12 to 11 victory here Saturday afternoon over the Argentinians in a quarter from Santa Paula.

Cooley replaced Stewart Iglehart on the American four during the last chucker of the exciting contest as the score stood tied.

Cooley's dashing goal spelled victory for the long Island team in their international series with the South Americans. The old Aikens four conquered the Santa Paula team twice, while the Argentinians registered one victory during the series.

Local Tennis Team Will Meet Outfit From Cedar Rapids

This afternoon at 2 p. m., tennis teams representing the associations of Cedar Rapids and Muscatine will meet on the local association courts on Mulberry avenue. A close battle is expected to be waged throughout the entire nine matches of six singles and three doubles.

Ted Swanson, Cedar Rapids No. 1 player, and a player of high ranking throughout the state, will show the fans some fine tennis. Several close and interesting matches are expected. The six players who will make up the local team are Bernard Harper, Francis Wells, Robert Asthalter, Ed Goetzman, John Van Lent and Ray Othmer.

Hanley to Compete In Outboard Races At LaCrosse Today

Attorney C. P. Hanley and his speedboat, "Baby Ethel VIII," left Muscatine Saturday for LaCrosse, Wis., where he will compete in the outboard races there today, an event which is under the aegis of the Midwest Outboard association.

Mr. Hanley announced that an 18 inch silver trophy cup was presented to the Midwest association by W. V. Kipper of LaCrosse and will be given to the one gathering the largest amount of points in the Midwest races.

JACK DEMPSEY HAS NO PLANS FOR COMEBACK

Ex-Champ Says He's Retired and Will Stay That Way

RENO, NEVADA—(INS)—Although admittedly intrigued by the thought that any one would offer a million dollars for his services—Jack Dempsey, Reno's No. 1 citizen has no plans for a "comeback" and likes the business of promoting prize fights instead of fighting them.

What's more, he likes this divorce and gambling metropolis as a "home town."

"I'm going to stay right here and promote fights," the former heavyweight champion said Saturday. "We're still looking around for principals in our proposed Labor day battle at the race track arena and hope to have an announcement at that respect soon."

"I've retired from the ring and I intend to stay retired. Since I quit fighting I've had more offers to attempt a comeback than almost any other man who ever retired. I guess, I have turned them down and shall continue to turn them down. I'm through."

LONDOS MOBBED AT WASHINGTON

'New Hold' Used to Floor Ruby Dusek Starts 'Riot'

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(INS)—Jim Londos, recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as the "Heavyweight Wrestling Champion of the World" today nursed bruises on the head inflicted by several men in a mob of 12,000 that resented the method he used to floor Ruby Dusek at Griffith Stadium Friday night.

He retained his title but lost the favor of the spectators. Dusek elected to rest awhile on the mat after Londos knocked his upper body in a "new" hold he invented but held the crowd's respect.

The reporters called the affair a near-riot. It started when Londos' hand was raised as the victor. A policeman was among the first to enter the ring. He wanted to arrest Londos for using his grip but Londos pushed him aside.

There was no time to bicker with an officer for thousands of angered spectators were pushing toward the ring.

Ed White, Londos' manager, was aiding Londos to escape from the ring when, according to reports, a policeman's billy came down on White's head and he rested almost on the spot where Dusek had reclined.

Londos started a rush for the dressing room, now accompanied by a group of police who did not want to arrest him. The crowd followed and it was at this point that he was struck several blows. He did not retaliate.

This is Londos' new hold: a right arm compressed against opponent's neck and pit of right arm so opponent's right arm is outstretched on a line with his shoulder and neck.

Potosi Kittenball Team Wins Another; Beats Yarc's, 6-1

Yarc's button factory kittenball team fell victim to the Potosi outfit in a game played Friday evening at the South End ball park, 6 to 1. The Potosi players scored in every inning except the first. The Yarc team scored its only run in the fourth inning. Chenoweth of the winners led in hitting with three safe blows in as many times up. Box score:

Muscatine Mecca Meet Silvis Today

Flushed with three consecutive victories, the Muscatine Mecca baseball team will travel to Silvis, Ill., to meet the Mexican All-Stars of that place this afternoon.

Those who will make the trip to Silvis are Bud Fabrizius, Kenny Huber, Bill Kook, Sam Philpot, Ma Grady, Fay Schweitzer, Red Mahrman, George Long, Reynolds, and Woodrow Tobias. Fabrizius will probably start on the mound with Huber on the receiving end.

"I wish you'd come over and help me draw up my will."
"Are you ill?"
"No, not at all, but my wife's learning to drive and I have to sit in the back seat."

Regardless of who Max Schmeling fights next the experts—every member of the fraternity—will be very busy in naming the other fellow to win. A strange fellow is this Schmeling. He looked anything but a champion when winning from Sharkey on a foul and in two years he had one fight, but came on to give a very fine account of himself against Stribling. The old rule in the fight game has been to learn while earning—experience being the only capable teacher. But Schmeling learned without experience and turned himself into championship form in the exhibition ring. That's against all the rules. Now what will he do next time? Sharkey is getting no younger. And if Max can shake off the punches of Stribling he can stand up under the clubbing of Carnera? Schmeling will go down in ring history as an interesting champion. He may never rate with the greats but he'll have just as many pages in the history of the sport.

The Davis Cup is in France and the heavyweight championship in Germany but we still live in hope. The Davis Cup is not going to be kept away from these shores for very long. If not this year then next year surely it will return to America. We lost in tennis a few years ago while putting our hopes in veteran stars. France won with youth. Now France has the veterans and we have the youth, and youth will not be denied. Shiel and Wood are mighty capable and improving steadily. LaCoste, Cochet and Borotra are slipping. Schmeling will keep the heavy title for a while but in time we may get it back in this young dynamite, Charlie Retzlaff. He has a punch and Schmeling apparently has no such weapon. Retzlaff is coming along slowly. In time he'll be up to the fore and then we may have a gate like those which made Tex Rickard smile.

New high marks in attendance have been set by both New York clubs, the Dodgers, the Cubs, the Athletics, the Braves and the Senators this year. Cleveland will soon run up some new attendance figures while putting our hopes in veteran stars. France won with youth. Now France has the veterans and we have the youth, and youth will not be denied. Shiel and Wood are mighty capable and improving steadily. LaCoste, Cochet and Borotra are slipping. Schmeling will keep the heavy title for a while but in time we may get it back in this young dynamite, Charlie Retzlaff. He has a punch and Schmeling apparently has no such weapon. Retzlaff is coming along slowly. In time he'll be up to the fore and then we may have a gate like those which made Tex Rickard smile.

Night baseball has reached its peak and will slide slowly back to a level which it may maintain indefinitely. Night baseball will survive in some localities because of local conditions which make it possible to get bigger crowds at night. Jack Holland of Oklahoma City agrees with the major leaguers that the development of young players for the big show is retarded by the playing of the game at night. And minor league club owners must depend on sales to the big leagues to show a profit. Very seldom do they have attendance enough to make a profit on a season. They try to break even on the gate and then sell a lad or two to handsome figures to bring them something for their investment. Peeewe golf and night baseball came in with a roar. Much money was made by the pioneers. Those who got in late didn't do so well. Fortunes were lost in peeewe golf. Night baseball hasn't brought out a bit of red ink. It has more than paid for itself.

Veteran Game Warden Tells How Iowa Shields Game Fish

By FRANK CRANE
INS Staff Correspondent

DES MOINES, Ia.—(INS)—The work of nursing baby pike and bass until they are able to protect themselves against their natural enemies is the job of the Iowa Game and Fish Department.

The department has under its supervision 93 stocked lakes, that are streams of the state are regularly stocked with game fish, and that there are 32 game refuges in the state.

Artificial propagation of fish, the veteran game warden states, is a greater percentage of eggs, and the nursing ponds, in which pike, bass and in some cases trout are allowed to attain a length of eight or ten inches before they are turned over to the operators of the state, enable the young fish to become mature under natural circumstances to become game fish.

Albert emphasized the fact that the Iowa Fish and Game Department is entirely self supporting, receiving no appropriation from the state. More than that the department during the last biennium turned over $58,000 to the school fund, he declares. Revenue is gained from hunting, fishing and trapping licenses, sale of rough fish removed by contract from state waters, and from miscellaneous office receipts.

At the end of the last biennium, a balance on hand of $142,453.63, after all obligations had been discharged, was reported.

The Fish and Game Department of the state of Iowa was created in 1879, at which time the department was placed under the commission of three men. A few years later the three-man commission was abolished and the department placed under the state game warden.

Albert, who has been in that line of work for twenty years or longer, became state game warden twelve years ago, April 17, 1891, under provision of the legislature then in session, a commission of five men was placed in charge of the department.

Outstanding work has been done with pheasants, according to Albert's last report. During the last biennium 7,231 ringneck pheasants and 19,032 pheasant eggs were distributed to the state. These were sent out with the understanding that all birds be liberated in covers adapted to them and given the best possible protection.

Albert states his belief that Iowa distributes more adult fish than any other state.

Protective measures enacted by the legislature and enforced by the fish and game department were in a large part responsible for the fact that the fur industry in this state brought trappers in Iowa $780,000 for the furs which they trapped during the one season of 1929-30. Albert says, who adds that Iowa was the first state to enact a bag limit law.

The French Olympic committee wants $280,000 from the government for 1932 expenses and if the committee gets it the committee is good.

SENATORS TAME WHITEHILL AND TIGERS, 5 TO 2

Sad Sam Jones Asks For Help Because Of The Heat

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Washington Senators tamed the Detroit Tigers here Saturday, 5 to 2. The game started out as a pitcher's battle between the veteran Sad Sam Jones and Earl Whitehill, Detroit southpaw, but Washington kept nipping the Tiger ace for a run here and there until the seventh when both were replaced. Jones asked to be taken out because of the excessive heat and Whitehill was removed for a pinch-hitter.

Sam West kept up his batting spree, getting one in three and McManus got 3 hits for the Tigers.

It looked like a shut-out till the ninth when Hadley, who replaced Jones for the Senators walked two men and mixed with a single by Gehring and an error allowed the Tigers 2 runs.

DOLAND MOE IS WESTERN CHAMP

Oregon Junior Takes Coveted Title for Second Time

PORTLAND GOLF CLUB, Portland, Ore.—(INS)—Doland Kermit Moe, 21, of Portland, a junior at the University of Oregon, is the new western amateur golf association champion.

Moe Saturday defeated Malcolm McNaughton, also of Portland, and a graduate of this year from Stanford university, 9 and 7.

It was Moe's second time to hold this highly coveted golf title in three years, having won it at Kansas City in 1929.

The new champion defeated Johnny Lehman of Chicago, who brought the title here at the opening of the 32nd annual tournament Monday, in the semi-finals Friday, 4 and 3.

Star-Flite Tourney Will Be Started at Geneva Club Monday

Something new in the line of tournaments will be started Monday at the Geneva Golf and Country club when a star-flite tourney which will continue through the rest of the summer is started. The idea is based along the same principle as that of the star-flite tennis which has been in use for two years.

Each player must challenge the one just above him at least once a week, and if the challenge is not accepted or played off he will advance above him on a forfeit.

SCHMELING OUT FOR ONE YEAR

Winner of the Sharkey-Walker Bout May Fight Carnera

NEW YORK—(INS)—The Sharkey-Walker bout here Wednesday night gained in importance Saturday when it was announced there was no chance of Max Schmeling defending his heavyweight title against Primo Carnera this year.

Joe Jacobs, manager of the German, said he had officially notified Madison Square Garden Max will not be ready to fight until June of next year.

The winner of the bout here Wednesday may fight Carnera late this summer, although there was some doubt expressed that if Walker won he would fight the Giant Italian, inasmuch as he would be outweighed almost prohibitively.

Myron Brower Sells Cruiser to Hazlett

Myron Brower's "Dona B," 28 foot Richardson cabin cruiser has been sold to George Hazlett of Muscatine, the possession of which was given immediately, it was announced Saturday by Mr. Brower.

Mr. Hazlett announced his intentions of leaving the boat in the Mississippi where it has been since first built.

OPPORTUNITY
Every college boy has an opportunity whether he be a heavyweight for the wrestling game or a lightweight for racing. Walter Wagner, former Illinois cheer leader, became a jockey.

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(INS)—Most branches of athletics at the U. S. Naval Academy sustained losses, some serious ones, through graduation of the 1931 class. The crew was hardest hit by graduation losses.

At Gray and Bob Bowstrom, officially rated the best athletes, were two-letter men, the former in football and rowing, a combination which often won its owner highest award, and the latter the football captain, and excellent tackle on the eleven and a fair basketball guard.

Two members of the class, Weston Byng and Dale Bauer, were three-letter men. Byng formerly of Central High of Washington, did his best work in football—at end—but was a fine outfielder, though weak in batting his last two seasons, and got in enough basketball games to win his letter.

Bauer played a good, heady game at quarterback on the eleven, got in the final game of Maryland, and did much to win that hard contest, and scored in the broad jump events for the track team.

Oscar Hagberg, big full back of the eleven and cover point of the lacrosse team, pushed three letters hard.

Duke Crinkley was another outstanding athlete, and many thought him a strong contender for the sword of the Navy Athletic Association, the mark of superior individual work in athletics.

Crinkley was the winner of one big national honor—the boxing championship in the heavyweight class.

Jim Corbett is the most consistent person in the boxing game. He has never picked a winner.

Add smiles—as idle as a ticket scalper at a heavyweight fight.

The world has now found out a little about Max Schmeling and the next title fight may give us a line on Carnera.

Time is flying fast—only a few days remain for big votes—hustle is the keynote right now. The winners in the Midwest Free Press Campaign may be determined within these last few days of the all-important first period.

Last Chance for Big VOTES

Never again during the campaign will it be possible to secure so many votes on subscriptions as between now and Monday night, July 27th. To hold back subscriptions now or to depend on "promises" to subscribe at a later date simply means that you will have to take less votes on such subscriptions. We are putting it up to you fairly and squarely—if you would be declared the winner of one of the big cars or cash prizes, you cannot possibly afford to let this big vote period pass without "casting your hat in the ring" with the "sticktoitiveness" that accomplishes the success of every effort worth while

LARGEST CIGAR PLANT LOCATES IN S. CAROLINA

Factory to Be Used for Manufacture of Cremo Cigars

CHARLESTON, S. C. — (Special) — Charleston is putting aside its tradition of leisurely living long enough to become a world center for cigar manufacture rivaling the long-established cigar cities of Florida and Pennsylvania.

The world's largest cigar factory is coming into being here, making Cremo Cigars under a "Two Year Plan" of the American Cigar company which will bring this factory to an output of 1,000,000 cigars a day at the beginning of 1932. The plant employs 1,200 workers now, turning out 350,000 to 375,000 cigars daily.

New Employees Added
Twenty-five new employees are being added every week, and this will continue for twenty-eight weeks more, bringing the force to 2,000. These workers, new to the cigar trade, are being organized into a staff of different types to be trained in the old-fashioned factories.

The new sanitary standards in the cigar industry, made possible by the introduction of machine methods of manufacture which eliminate spit tipping and other unclean practices, have made it necessary to train an entirely new type of worker for the great Charleston factory, as well as for other factories where Cremo is made. H. W. Jefferson, supervisor of eastern factories of the cigar company, explained.

Untrained Persons Hired
Untrained persons are hired in preference to those who have been trained in the old hand methods of cigar manufacture. The old timers are accustomed to methods which cannot be allowed in a cigar factory attempting to live up to the highest sanitary requirements. They are often incapable of the clean, accurate habits as lacking their fingers, incurred by long practice.

The supervisor spoke enthusiastically of the development of the Charleston project. Every department of the great factory is touched in the expansion program.

On the first floor a hundred workers are busy processing the leaves. Some tobacco goes into the "sweat room" where heat and moisture make it pliable overnight. Another room, regulated somewhat differently, conditions the "binders" or inner wrapping. For the outer wrapper an imported leaf is employed.

Many Machines Used
Swift conveyors carry the tobacco and the cigars in process of manufacture from department to department. "Filler" is fed automatically into a machine which cuts it to the proper length. With marvelous dexterity, another machine wraps the binder around the filler, shapes the cigar, and moves it to where the wrapper is rolled on.

The clear is trimmed automatically, and finished under glass—the latter process being exclusive to Cremo cigars.

After seasoning for a few days, the cigars are sorted by color, shaped by pressure, sealed in cellophane, the bands put on. Then they go into boxes.

The factory has its own box-making plant, capable of turning out 40,000 boxes a day, enough for its own present needs and for the northern factories of the company. Here, too, automatic machinery rules, turning raw lumber swiftly into complete labelled boxes.

A cafeteria is maintained, seating 600. There is also a first aid room, with a trained nurse in charge, who gives each new employee a complete physical examination.

Superintendent of Keota Schools Has Resigned Position

KEOTA, Ia. — (Special) — The board of directors of the Keota independent school district announced that W. C. Moser, who has been superintendent of the district, has resigned his position.

Mr. Moser's action came as a surprise to the board, as it does to the rest of the community. An opportunity to go into business has been presented to him, and that is his sole reason for leaving Keota and the teaching profession.

He would have begun the last year of a three year contract in September.

Mr. Moser's connection with the Keota schools began almost thirteen years ago. Having married a Keota girl, Miss Bernice Bower, before the war when both were teaching in Sigourney, he rejoined her here after getting his discharge from the U. S. aviation service. His first year he received a salary of $1,600.

During the next few years the board voluntarily gave him an increase in salary, and the last few years received $2,925 per year.

Mr. Moser has not revealed his future plans other than he has made arrangements to go into business in Dixon, Ill., taking his wife and two children and establishing a home there.

Learn to Know the Right Word

By W. C. Nicholson

IN ONLY A FEW WORDS

Many years ago, long before the ascendancy of the Roman Empire, there was a powerful country called Laconia. It was located in the southern part of Greece, and played a notable part in the history of the Greek states.

There is a story that a Laconian thought it no crime to steal, as long as he did not get caught. One day a youth was apprehended after he had stolen a fox. The courageous youngster covered the animal with his tunic and in a few words flattered that he was guilty. All the while the fox was gnawing at his stomach, and he was turning paler and paler, finally fainting and dying.

It is said that widows never mourned when they received news that their mates had perished at the front. Since their husbands belonged to the state, they smiled and said nothing. They were Spartans.

These Laconians had many interesting customs, but the two that have come down through the centuries and have been inherited by many of us are the ability to take punishment without flinching, thus being Spartans, and the quality of expressing ourselves in as few words as possible. Thus from the latter quality we get the word laconic (from Laconia). Example: he made a laconic remark.

And from the city of Sparta, the capital of Laconia, we get the word Spartan.

Believe it or not, I saw the following in print the other day: "...where the fire had eaten it's way." The possessive form "it's" should never contain an apostrophe. (Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Newspapers.)
